TO THE WEST! TO THE WEST!

Before making your arrangements to follow the advice of the "thousands who have already gone," it would be well to consider what has been done to make the journey to your "Homes in the West" as pleasant and free from danger as human skill and foresight can accomplish.

By consolidation and construction, a road has been put into operation on the shortest possible line from Nashville, Tenn., to St. Louis, "the future great City of the world." This line, the has, during the past year, earned an enviable reputation by its smooth track, prompt time, sure connections, and the magnificence of its passenger equipment. Its trains are made up of new and commodious day cars, provided with the celebrated Miller coupler and platform, and the Westinghouse air-brake.

It is possitively the only line running Pullman Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping Cars through without change from Nashville to St. Louis. No other line pretends to offer such advantages, either in distance, time, or equipment. Why, then, journey by circitous routes? Do not be induced to purchase tickets to St. Louis or the West by any other line, remember that is the shortest, cheapest, quickest, best and only line under one management from Nashville to St. Louis, and is from 60 to 200 miles the shortest to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, California, Texas, and all western points. It is also the "Chicago Shortest Line," via Evansville.

You can secure the cheapest rates for yourselves and your movables on application, in person or by letter, to CHARLES McCABE, Southern Passenger Agent, near College street Depot, Nashville, Tenn., or to the undersigned.

The Evening Post.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Monday. September 29th, 1873.

If ever a paper exhibited in its every day articles, a mean low-lived desire to injure men because of their devotion to principles, and to stab in the back high toned christian men merely to be revenged upon a political party, that paper is the New York Sun. A few years ago its editor was filling columns with the most slobbery sort of praise of General Grant. The editor wanted office! He did not get it and hence this impotent rage. He has, since then, pursued a course of low brutal attacks against prominent Republicans, false, malicious and wicked. Nine-tenths of the scurilous slanders against the President and his family can be traced back to the Sun where they originated. Arrested for slander in Philadelphia, Dana gave bail in the sum of $5,000 and ran away, thus forfeiting his bond. Arrested in New York on an order from Washington for slandering Gov. Cooke, of the District of Columbia, he escaped through a technicality in law and all the Democratic papers rejoiced thereat. But the Sun continues its outrageous course. A few days ago it published another slander which was copied into the Journal of this city. It published the following:

It is said that the children and other legatees of the late Chief Justice Chase will lose all the personal property bequeathed to them, by the failure of the Cookes. Through his favor, kindness, and protection, the Cookes were enabled to rise from obscurity to position, and from poverty to great wealth. Had they been content with these gains, they would to-day have been prosperous and powerful. Greedy of vaster fortune, they recklessly blundered, speculated, and fell, involving thousands in their ruin.

The Chief Justice had no faith in Henry D. Cooke's ability, but he believed him to be honest, and made him the executor of his last will and testament. That sacred trust is now answered by a shameful sacrifice of duty. All that he could reach has been appropriated from the estate, and this but one example of hundreds equally scandalous. Is there no penalty for such crimes.

This malicious article has plenty of time to be circulated all over the United States before a denial can be published, and the mischief is done. In Saturday's Herald appears the following from its Washington correspondent.

Certain representations having been made concerning the personal estate of the late Chief Justice Chase in connection with the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., it has been ascertained that the heirs and legatees of the Chief Justice lose nothing by the suspension of the above named firm. The securities and other personal property of the Chase estate were not touched by Mr. Sydney D. Cooke, Judge Chase's sole executor, even for the purpose of reimbursing the advance which he has made in administering the estate and upon Mr. Chase's farm near Washington. The whole estate is safe and intact.

We have not the remotest idea that Dana will ever retract his false statement or even admit that Henry D. Cooke is not the executor of the estate, but when he asks with a pecksniffian whine for penalty for crimes, we hope he will reserve his portion of the same—and the sooner the better.

THE following article is going the rounds of the press:

The twelve millions of bonds just purchased by the Treasury, with a view to relieve the pressure in financial circles, will save to the Government $750,000 interest per annum.

This bears so directly upon the position we have taken and advocated so often in these columns, that we cannot refrain from referring to the subject again.

We do not see why the Government should pay millions of dollars every year for interest on bonds, and then allow the National Banks to issue bills on those bonds and draw the interest. It not only makes the government guarantee the circulation, but it also compels it to pay the expenses of the same!—This cuts both ways, and always against the government. Let the Treasury Department issue greenbacks instead of bonds, pay off the National debt with them, and do away with the issuing department of the National Banks, and we will see a marked improvement in the financial aspect of the country. It would materially lessen the taxes which are grievous to be borne, and furnish a full supply of currency which is greatly needed. Our crops are all ready to move. Cotton, corn, wheat, etc., waiting for funds, but no one has confidence in his neighbor, and the days fly by, making us poorer instead of richer, and entailing misery and suffering upon those who desire to live in peace and comfort. All this is caused simply by a scarcity of currency to move the crops, and could not have occurred had the government issued a circulating medium instead of paying an enormous interest on its loans. Had the farmers the usual confidence of the season, we might work along, but the instant a doubt of solvency exists in the public mind, business ceases. Farmers are afraid to ship their products to market, and merchants are afraid to sell goods to country dealers. If the next Congress will take this matter firmly in hand, and pass laws looking toward a better system of circulating medium, it will make itself of lasting fame, and the people will rise up and call it blessed.

The Masonic Dedication.

The dedication of the Masonic Temple at Philadelphia was an occasion of world wide interest. The magnificence of the structure, the quiet way the Order managed its financial affairs, and the costly materials and the strict Masonic law adhered to in the building, all combined to make the occasion one of the events of a life time, and no trouble or expense was spared to make the dedication worthy of the time and place. Masonic hospitality is so proverbial, that it is unnecessary to refer to the kind attentions bestowed upon the visiting brethren, as that is almost of daily occurrence everywhere, but the peculiar characteristics of this procession, grand in its simplicity and members, will never be forgotten by those who witnessed or participated in it. The following is an extract from the Washington Republican's report.

The lodges were formed in sections of six, and marched six feet apart. The visiting lodges were assigned to the particular Philadelphia lodges whose guests they are, and marched with them in line. The procession embraced about fifteen thousand men. Forty bands of music were employed, and these were distributed in the line, under the direction of the grand marshal. The bands were dressed in black clothes. All the brethren wore full suits of black, with silk hats and white gloves, and all were clothed with the lamb skin or white apron, "the emblem of innocence and badge of a Mason." The officers of the lodges wore the jewels to which they are entitled suspended from the left lappel by a blue ribbon. No banners or devices were allowed in the procession, which was grand in its austere simplicity and imposing in its severe plainness. The route over which the procession moved and the streets adjacent to the Temple were crowded beyond precedent. Humanity was packed on Broad street three and four stories high. Commencing at the curbstone, the crowd flowed over the pavement, swarmed in doorways and windows, and spread over the housetops. The most glittering pageant ever known to this city has not equaled this sombre procession in interest or excelled it in enthusiasm—quiet, unobtrusive enthusiasm—but not the less earnest and genuine because of this.

The procession moved up the west side of Broad street as far north as Diamond street, from which point it countermarched until the left of the line, which was in front, reached the temple, when it halted and formed into line.—The ranks were then opened, facing each other. When this movement was completed the Grand Lodge marched down between the opened ranks, followed by the various lodges next on the left, and in this order moved towards the temple.

The Grand Lodge, as it entered the temple, was received with appropriate ceremonies, and then proceeded to the Grand Lodge room to prepare for the subsequent ceremonies of dedication.—The different lodges proceeded directly through the first floor of the temple to Juniper street, and then marched to places previously selected for their banquets.

On entering the temple the band of the Grand Lodge turned to the left and took position on the first flight of the main staircase, playing at intervals, while the lodges passed through the lower hall; the grand officers and officers of sister Grand Lodges, with the members of the Grand Lodge, turned to the right, and ascending the main staircase to the Renaissance-room, they were there vouched for, and then entered the Corinthean room where the ceremonies of dedication were proceeded with. In the meantime the different lodges marched though the building, and were dismissed on Juniper street.

When the Grand Lodge had entered the room, the ceremonies proper, of the dedication were proceeded with, which were opened by a selected choir of Masons singing the 127th Psalm, with instrumental accompaniments. The architect was then presented to the Grand Master and the implements were surrendered. The Grand Master then proceeded to dedicate the temple. Corn was strewn by the Grand Master, and the Grand Chaplain sprinkled the wine and poured the oil. These ceremonies were performed with a new and most impressive ritual, and were accompanied by vocal and instrumental music of the grandest order. After these dedication ceremonies the Grand Lodge was closed in ample form, and the Grand Marshal formed the Grand Lodge in procession. After moving three times around the room the brethern retired from the building, the orchestra playing a grand march.

Mr. Josh Billings philosophically remarks that "we laff at sheep bekause when one of them leads the way the rest follow, however ridikilus it may be; and I suppose the sheep laff when they see us do the very same thing."

Observer, U. S A.

REV. ZETENTH HORTON immersed two candidates for baptism in the dock at the foot of Princess street, yesterday about noon.

OUTRAGE.—Mr. H. B. Willis was again attacked last Saturday night by some one unknown, who snapped three caps near him. It was so dark that he could not distinguish the perpetrator.—It is to be hoped he will get upon his track, as this is the second time an attack has been made upon him.

POSTPONEMENT.—Owing to the inclement weather to-day, the grand opening at B. Weill's has been extended from 5 to 10 to-night. The public is invited to attend, and a rare exhibition of elegant goods will be seen. If it is at all clear, we shall expect to see a large attendance, for who does not like to inspect beautiful goods.

SKIFF & GAYLORD'S MINSTRELS.—This well known troupe will perform in this city on the 6th and 7th of October. Mr. J. Gaylord, their gentlemanly agent, is now in the city perfecting the arrangements, and as it is the first performance for some time, we presume they will have a full house. This troupe has adopted a novel arrangement, introducing three bones players and three tambourinists. This, with the performing dogs, will make great attraction.

Mayor's Court.

His Honor W. P. CANADAY, Mayor, presiding.

J. W. Whitney, charged with resisting an officer, in violation of section 4, city ordinance, was fined $50 and costs. Appeal.

THE CHURCHES yesterday were well attended. The day was quite warm, but it looked so cheerful that many came out. Services were held as usual at St. James', St. Johns' and St. Paul's. Dr. Plumer preached at the Baptist church in the morning and at the Presbyterian Lecture room in the evening. Dr. Bernheim preached at the Lutheran church as usual. Rev. Mr. Patterson preached at St. Mark's at night, Rev. Mr. Brady being still out of the city. Rev. Mr. Burr preached at the Second Presbyterian, Dr. Moran at the Front Street Methodist and Father Gross served at St. Thomas' Church. The night services were remarkably well attended.

That faculty which enables its possessor to people the elements with beings unknown to the common mind, in its harmless exercise, is one of the purest sources of pleasure; but when it is perverted, and instead of seeing bright creatures and elegant forms, it beholds imps from the nether world, it is a curse.

Of a similar nature is that misanthropy which attributes the basest motives to good conduct, which is unwilling to give the credit of good intentions to actions, deliberately done, which results in benefit to all. That disposition which would pursuade the world that a man, or a class of men, are fully bent on mischief, and have only been diverted from their purpose by accident, is apt to draw from self knowledge its measure of the action. Such self-torturers are to be pitied; but care should be taken that such pernicious sentiments do not extend to the well disposed of the community.

Such reflections arise on reading the comments of the opposition press on the course of the President in the financial difficulties of the past week.—While very careful not to overstep the bounds established by the law, President Grant used every means which the law gave him to relieve the pressure on the market during the time of distress; and it is perhaps due to the conduct of the Secretary of the Treasury that this country escaped the peril which has threatened it for ten days.—This action was directed and sustained the President, and the country has escaped a dangerous crisis. Censure has been said to be the tax a man pays for being eminent, and the President possesses one of those constant minds which enables him to estimate the true value of such criticisms; and he has made a history to which we refer, in making up its verdict of the man posterity will have that history for its guide.

THE TOWN CRIER.

— Mild.

— Gold is 112¾.

— Business improving.

— Goods for sale cheap now.

— Hon. John Dawson returned.

— L. E. Rice returned Saturday.

— Churches well filled yesterday.

— October will be prolific in shows.

— Read Mr. Hinton's school advertisement.

— At Weill's grand opening to-day, was seen an immense variety of elegant goods.

— Mr. G. W. Jewett has returned after his long Northern trip looking much improved in health.

— Nealy every store in the city has caught the impr ovement mania which now rages here, and are all going to be so handsome, we have about concluded not to purchase anything anywhere.

ADVICE FOR EVERYBODY THAT COSTS NOBODY ANYTHING.—Lotions and cosmetics make a superficial coating on the skin, give an artificial color easily seen, but are vilely destructive of the color, texture and pliability of the skin itself. Wrinkled, haggard and prematurely old looking, exactly describe the appearance of those who habitually "paint their faces." If you would have the clear, transparent, healthy and soft tinted complexian which nature gives, free from pimples, tan, freckles, or all other disfigurements, use Hand Sapolio—the most effective and fragrant toilet soap ever manufactured. Sold by all dealers at 10 and 15 cents a cake.

THERE appears to be a considerable conflict of authority in our midst between the city and the magistrates, which will have to be decided by the Superior Court. Whenever a man is arrested by a policeman, if he feels agrieved, he procures a warrant from a magistrate and arrests the policeman who generally gets fined. Sometimes the fine is laid at $50. Of course policemen being merely human, are liable to errors in judgment occasionally, but this wholesale system of bringing them up before Magistrate's Courts, except on very serious charges, should be discountenanced. There have been most flagrant assaults committed by members of the police force which should be punished, but we think the magistrates should exercise more caution in issuing warrants for false imprisonment.

SHIPWRECK AT SEA.

Terrific Storm—A vessel dismasted and at the mercy of the Wild Waves—A staunch Steamer refuses to tow the Wreck—The Ben Borland.

From Capt. J. M. Brittingham, of the Schooner Ben Borland, which arrived at this port last night, we obtain the following particulars: The Schooner Ben Borland, of 126 tons burden, of and from New York, bound to Jacksonville, Florida, with a general cargo of merchandize and a deck load of barrels, left New York on Sunday, 14th September, and on the 20th, then being to the Southward of Cape Hatteras, at about 4½ o'clock in the morning, encountered a terrible cyclone, the gale commencing at N. N. E., and changing around the compass to E. S. E., and thence to E. N. E. from which quarter it blowed steadily for a number of hours. The seas were very high, washing the decks of everything moveable, and soon the entire deck load was gone. The yawl boat was torn away from the davits; next the forctopmast went by the board, carrying with it the head of the foremast and all the rigging attached thereto—then the main-boom was carried away, and the vessel, badly encumbered by the wreck of the foremast, became unmanageable, and the mainmast was cut away, and at 6 o'clock a. m. the stump of the foremast was also cut away, and when the rigging was all gotten clear, vessel seemed easier, although the seas made frequent breaches over her, keeping her deck filled with water.

After the gale abated, jury masts were rigged, small sails were hoisted, and the vessel again became manageable. On the 23d at about 3 o'clock P. M., the Steamer San Salvador approached and asked Capt. Brittingham if he and his crew desired to abandon the vessel. Capt. B. declined, as the hull was tight and he had an abundance of provisions, but asked to be towed to the nearest port, which the Captain of the San Salvador refused to do, and proceeded on his course. On the 24th at about 2 o'clock P. M., then being in thirteen fathoms of water, Body Island Light bearing N. N. E., the wind N. E., weather thick, threatening and squally, the Brig Black Swan, Captain H. Winslade, from Boston bound to this port, approached, and took the Borland in tow, and headed for this port.

On the next day, Thursday, then being to the southward of Hatteras, spoke a steamer from Savannah, and the next day, Friday, spoke a steamer from Charleston, requesting them both to report. At 10 o'clock A. M., Sunday 28, came in over the Main bar, and was towed to Wilmington by Steam tug Alpha.

Captain Brittingham, in behalf of himself and his crew, returns his thanks to Captain Winslade, of the Black Swan for having struck so closely to him during the trying ordeal through which they passed.

Saturday Night Sketches.

For the first time since we commenced these sketches, the clouds have overcast the sky, and gentle rain comes pattering down upon the "street brokers" on Saturday night. One vast sea of umbrellas jam and jostle each other, now stopping before some heavily laden cart and blocking the air room for umbrellas, and now elevating high in air to permit shorter pedestrians to glide along underneath. We don't know as we ever saw two umbrellas alike in our life, but we are confident that there are no two alike to-night, bobbing and dodging along, each owner intent upon selecting his week's stores. But he must "buy close" to-night. Reporters have to know everything—at least they try to—and we say, "Hello, Sam, did they pay you off to-night?" "Wall, no sah, not exactly. They seems to be a sort-a-hitch somewhere to-night, but I can make out." And so the panic works down to interfere with our Saturday night business. "Well, Charlie," says a good natured storekeeper, "got that money for me to-night?" But Charlie has been around, and knows a thing or two himself. "No, sah, I ain't got the money with me. You see the bank claims sixty days, and I can't get my money out." Charlie, in good times, don't keep much of an account at the Freedman's Savings Bank. Indeed, we are inclined to believe that it would be difficult to find his name on the books as a depositor anywhere, but he must make his excuse. So the miserable panic has to do duty as a scapegoat, and Charlie gets a few more dollars' worth of groceries to be paid next Saturday night "shua." Oh, well, Charlie is simply one of a large class. Many debts are crowded off the same way. Through the puddles, and dodging the dripping eaves, hurry the crowds, and the old clock, which must work, rain or shine, tolls out the hour of nine. A glance shows the long line of umbrellas still dodging along, but the rain has ceased. Too busy to note the weather change, they carry the dripping protectors, unable to see the dim stars through the cambric folds, but there they are in plain sight. No more rain to-night! Involuntarily, almost, the merry songs break out, and the accustomed loud laughter is heard. The cart merchants glance around, and hastily close their unsightly shelters, and enter upon their business in hand with renewed vigor. The force of example is illustrated here, for in two minutes more not an umbrella is seen in the air, but every man, woman and child has got one to "tote" home, beside the accustomed loads. The new moon is forgotten to-night, because she was concealed by the clouds in the early evening, and, like a proper young lady, retired early, and was evidently unaware that the stars were enjoying the scene.

But still the night is dull! too wet for loafers to congregate, the streets soon assume a quiet aspect, and save the haste homeward, seen at a glance without, they have assumed their customary appearance. The merchants are busy, however, and many an article of clothing changed ownership.

The Market Street Savings Bank is free from worry. No run or excitement, its genial cashier, the King of the hour, guards his greenbacks with jealous care and pays all demands. Deposits increasing instead of diminishing, he feels that inner strength and confidence so comforting to a cashier. Long may he remain in so cheerful a frame of mind, and may the greenbacks pile up until more clerks have to be employed to take proper care of it! No sixty day rule if he wanted it, he stands up to pay cash on demand, and does it every time.

The water hastens from the walks to the gutters and hurries down to the river and from thence to the sea from whence it came, and the gentle breeze comes through the air, cooled to a refreshing dampness, to close the labors of the week. Cash is counted and strong safes are in demand, for we fear there is much money left out of deposit account to-day. Ere the midnight hour, the clouds came hurrying back and the heavy rain for a few moments hastens the loiterers to friendly shelters, but we sympathize with the scores of farmers riding home in their empty carts. But it clears away as speedily as it came and the Sabbath is welcomed in with clear skies and merry stars.

"Sleep chains the earth; the bright stars glide on high,
Filling with one effulgent smile the sky;
And all is hush'd so still, so silent there,
That one might hear an angel wing the air."

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—We are informed that a woman attempted to commit suicide this morning by taking a large dose of laudnum, but was fortunately discovered in time and is, as we go to press, alive and under the care of physicians.
